

Stoneham and Mont-Sainte-Anne made Flight Network's Top 35 best kept secret ski resorts for 2017

Beaupré, January 24th, 2017 – People living in the great Quebec area are definitely lucky folks... They have the two wonders of the province's ski resorts in their backyard! Yesterday, the well-known online-based travel agency Flight Network unveiled its Top 35 of the best kept secret ski resorts for 2017, and Mont-Sainte-Anne and Stoneham are the only resorts in Quebec figuring on the list.

The resorts' strengths

Flight Network's Top 35 enumerates the greatest assets of each resort. Here is what impressed them the most about Quebec's mountains:

Mont-Sainte-Anne: The mountain is set apart by the wide range of difficulty levels on the slopes, allowing beginners as well as experts to enjoy their day skiing, and the breathtaking view of the Saint-Lawrence River from the summit. They also loved the multi-activity side of the mountain: cross-country skiing, alpine touring, snowshoeing, fat biking, paragliding, ice canyoning, ice skating and many more are offered at the resort in addition to alpine skiing. This makes Mont-Sainte-Anne a great winter destination for travelers.

Stoneham: Stoneham has an incredible atmosphere on the slopes as well as during the après-ski, at the Feu-Follet restaurant or the Quatre-Foyer bar, and that is what people at Flight Network loved about the place. The resort is a great choice for skiers and snowboarders looking for a dynamic and cool experience in addition to great ski conditions.
